

Handwritten text in Arabic script, featuring a central vertical line and several horizontal lines with decorative flourishes. The text is arranged in a vertical column, with the central line acting as a spine. The script is bold and expressive, with some characters appearing to be stylized or calligraphic. The overall appearance is that of a handwritten note or a decorative element.